NATIONAL DAY OF CIVIC HACKING

(intel) POWERED BY

EVENTS   CHALLENGES
DATA   PROJECTS
BLOG

Northern Virginia National Day of Civic Hacking
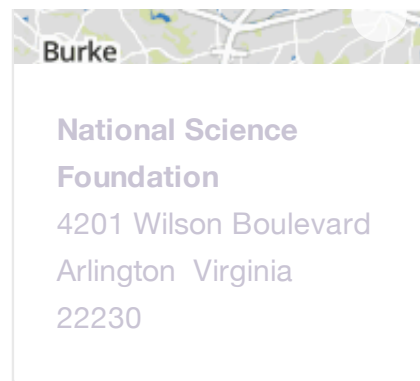

Hackathon

Code for NoVA Hackathon

On May 31, we'll be making history all over again. For the second time, as part of the National Day of Civic Hacking, Code for NoVA will be hosting an all day hackathon.   We will unite technologists, entrepreneurs, developers and other citizens in using open data to improve communities and the governments that serve them.   You'll have an exciting opportunity to work with national data sets from a variety of federal agencies, and local data sets and applications from the City of Alexandria and Arlington County.

Saturday, May 31, 2014 - 8:00 am to Saturday, May 31, 2014 - 9:00 pm

Register for this event

We have an exciting list of prizes, including lunch with the Director of the National Science Foundation, a personal meeting with one of the "fathers of the internet", and a variety of cool techie toys.

Want to get involved? Contact one of your local organizers (listed below) to find out how.

Burke

National Science Foundation
4201 Wilson Boulevard
Arlington Virginia
22230

ORGANIZERS

NINA   RHILL   CODEFORNOVA

SPONSORS & PARTNERS

oneTesla

SP=CTRUM
Where health, science and communications meet

©2014 National Day of Civic Hacking

#hackforchange

✉ hello@hackforchange.org

Home / Bug Reports / Privacy / Terms of Service / Contact